BRR Receives 2008-2011 IDP Firm Award

In April of 2008, BRR Architecture was awarded the “2008 IDP Firm Award” by the national Intern Development Program Advisory Committee (IDPAC). This IDP Firm Award is part of the all new IDP Outstanding Firm Awards Program which aims to honor not only firms with the most remarkable dedication to the IDP, but also those who meet baseline criteria in their dedication to the Intern Development Program (IDP). The primary intentions of this program are to encourage firms to create a resource for emerging professionals and students and to encourage firms to be more active in the internship process.

BRR Architecture received this designation because we have established a formal in-house Intern Development Program that focuses on helping our architectural interns begin and follow through on their path to architectural licensure. Our program provides all of our architectural interns an encouraging environment for training and opportunities to development their skills to prepare for the challenges of the practice of architecture in the future.
